Conducting Informational Interviews

Informational interviews give you the opportunity to spend time with a professional and see the day-to-day of a career in which you are interested. Informational interviews can help you build your professional network as well as help you uncover the hidden job market and learn about the undisclosed details of a specific job, company, organization or school.

Preparing for the Informational Interview

1. Identify a professional to contact in your area of interest. Your career counselor can help.
2. Research the professional and their organization or industry.
3. Reach out to the professional via phone or email to schedule an appointment to meet them.
4. Prepare questions to ask the professional. Utilize some of the sample questions on page 28 to get started, and be sure to ask specific questions related to their position, company, or industry.
5. Plan for the interview to take 30 minutes or fewer. Be mindful and respectful of the professional’s time. Make sure to stay focused.

*Need help coming up with questions to ask? Contact the Career Exploration Office.

Finding Your Path

Know Your Options

Stop by the Career Exploration Office and meet with our Interns and Career Counselors. They will provide a variety of assessments that you can take to narrow down your career and major options.

Go on Handshake and schedule an appointment with a Career Exploration Counselor, or stop by the Career Exploration office and meet with one of our Interns.

Jon Garst
Double Major in Finance & Banking and Risk Management & Insurance
Campus Employment: University Housing

What have you learned from your student employment experience?
I have benefited from working as a Resident Assistant in many ways; learning how to communicate in a more effective manner, and being able to cultivate my leadership ability. I have helped [my residents] become more active members of AppState. I now know how to be an effective team member, be a resource for anyone that needs advice, and to truly enjoy my work.

Advice for Future Student Workers:
You might have different reasons for wanting to have an on-campus job (location, financial reasons, etc.) but I promise that you will find the true reason why Appalachian is so great: the people. Being employed on campus has opened so many doors (friendship, professional relationships, career opportunities, etc.) for me, and I am sure that it will do the same for you.

Hollie Dinley
Major in Child Development
Campus Employment: Appalachian Post Office

What have you learned from your student employment experience?
I was able to gain valuable work experience and skills during my five years at the University Post Office. I gained communication, interpersonal, and time management skills that have been useful in other aspects of my life. My work study was flexible around my class schedule and allowed me to study after my tasks were completed. This allowed me to stay on top of school work while earning a paycheck.

Advice for Future Student Workers:
I definitely recommend taking advantage of this opportunity during your time at Appalachian. You’ll make great friends, gain valuable skills, and have experiences that will prepare you for the rest of your life.

The Office of Student Employment at Appalachian State University assists students in obtaining part-time job opportunities on and off campus through the Federal Work-Study Program and the Student Temporary Work Program. It also conducts the I-9 and E-verify processing for all student temporary and work-study employees.
Finding A Part-Time Job

Largest Campus Employers
For currently enrolled students looking for on-campus employment, the list of largest campus employers on page 6 is the best place to start.

Contact departments of interest individually as hiring processes may differ. Some departments may require students to fill out an application in person, while others will allow a student to submit electronically.

Students are invited to apply for multiple departments.

Work Study
Gain experience while financing your education through the Federal Work Study Program. The Federal Work-Study Program provides employment opportunities for students demonstrating financial need and is awarded as part of the student’s Financial Aid package. Applications are made through the Financial Aid Office by completing a FAFSA (Free Application for the Federal Student Aid) Form.

Contact a Financial Aid Counselor to find out if you qualify for Work Study.

Handshake
To search for local and on-campus part-time job postings log on to appstate.joinhandshake.com. Use your AppState username and password. An early start to your job hunt and following up on your applications are key to your success in securing a part-time job.

Check back often as postings are added daily.

Odd Jobs Google Group
Join our Odd Jobs Google Group and receive information on local job opportunities including yard work, moving help, and childcare positions. As with the Job Board, you must contact the employer directly.

Be sure to act quickly, as these jobs don’t last long.

Internship Experience
Seek an internship that will help expand your skills and competencies. The Internship Coordinator for your major/academic department can assist you in determining whether or not an internship will be substantial enough to count for academic credit. As with all academic credit, you will pay AppState tuition and fees.

FAQ About Internships

Why should I do an internship?
Employers and graduate schools value hands-on experience. Plus, this is an opportunity for you to get to know the field a little bit better, to see what parts of the industry you like, and the environment of the industry.

What goals do I want to accomplish in my internship?
Seek an internship that will help expand your skills and competencies. The Internship Coordinator for your major/academic department can assist you in determining whether or not an internship will be substantial enough to count for academic credit. As with all academic credit, you will pay AppState tuition and fees.

When should I do my internship?
Consult with your academic advisor to investigate an ideal time for you to do your internship. Take into consideration your projected graduation date, when required courses for your major are offered, and when you can be absent from campus if your internship location is away from Boone.

Should I do my internship for academic credit?
Some programs of study/majors atAppState require an internship which means a student will enroll in an internship and pay tuition and fees as with any other course. For other programs of study/majors, doing an internship for academic credit is strongly encouraged but not required.

Why should I do an internship for academic credit if an internship is not required for your program of study/major?
Internship hosts frequently require that you be enrolled in an internship to be eligible for an internship at their site. When enrolled in an internship, you will have professional and general liability insurance coverage while you are on site.

If you are experiencing any barriers to your learning or in meeting your goals, you have your site supervisor and your faculty supervisor to support you.

A faculty supervisor in your major will be assigned to assist you in completing your agreed upon learning goals and outcomes for your internship. Learning goals will provide structure to ensure you meet your career and skill development goals.

An on-site supervisor with experience in your field of study will be assigned to you to assist in your training and to ensure you have assigned tasks and experiences to meet your learning goals and outcomes.

PRO-TIP

DID YOU KNOW: EMPLOYERS AT CAREER FEST ARE LOOKING FOR STUDENTS SEEKING FULL-TIME JOBS OR INTERNSHIPS. TAKE THE TIME TO TALK TO EACH EMPLOYER AND SEE WHAT THEY HAVE TO OFFER YOU.
Finance Your Internship

Budgeting for tuition, housing, travel, and hours on-site are factors to consider as you plan for your internship.

Credit: Consult with your academic advisor and/or internship coordinator to assess how many credit hours you need to satisfy the requirements of your program of study/major. It is important to avoid earning and paying for more academic credit than you need. You will pay for each credit hour you earn as an intern as with any other credit-bearing course.

Tuition: AppState tuition costs can be found on the Student Accounts page under Tuition and Fees.

Financial Aid: If you are receiving financial aid, managing your financial aid package and maintaining your satisfactory academic progress is critical. Remember to seek the advice from The Office of Student Financial Aid when addressing your Financial Aid package.

Work: Take into consideration whether you can maintain part or all of your on/off campus job while you intern.

Housing: Think about whether or not you can secure an internship where you have a place to live. Factor in the cost of your housing arrangement.

Travel: Examine costs of commuting to your internship. Account for your time and transportation costs (gasoline, mileage, public transportation fees, etc.).

Pay, stipend, or experience only: The value of an internship is measured by its ability to provide the opportunity to meet your learning and skill development goals for your career and for the completion of your degree program/major. Academic credit can be considered whether you are paid for your internship or not.

Internship sites vary in their ability to pay or to offer a stipend to their intern. It is likely most interns will secure an unpaid internship.

DON’T USE A TEMPLATE. THEY ARE EASY TO SPOT BY EMPLOYERS, AND HARD FOR YOU TO EDIT.

We suggest starting with a blank document.
Curriculum Vita or Resume?

It is not uncommon for job seekers and graduates school applicants to become confused by the terms resume and CV, or Curriculum Vita or Vitae (plural). The terms are not synonymous and are occasionally used incorrectly by employers and graduate schools. The three major differences between CVs and resumes are the length, the purpose, and the layout.

Resumés
- Summarizes qualification, education experience, and skills.
- Often no longer than one page (maybe two depending on the industry).
- Goal is to make an individual stand out from the competition.
- Resumes should be adapted to every position that an individual applies for.
- A resume DOES NOT have to cover your whole career but rather should be customized to match a desired occupation/position.

Curriculum Vita
- In-depth document traditionally used within the academic community covering education, teaching and research experience, publications, presentations, professional memberships, and related involvement.
- CVs CAN and should be longer than one or two pages.
- CV should be organized chronologically to make it easy to get an overview of an individual’s full working career.
- A CV is static and does not change for different positions.

Top 10 Resume Mistakes
1. Typos and Grammatical Errors
2. Lack of Specifics
3. Attempting One Size Fits All
4. Highlighting Duties Instead of Accomplishments
5. Going on Too Long or Cutting Things Too Short
6. Unclear Objective Section
7. No Action Verbs
8. Leaving Off Important Information
9. Visually Too Busy
10. Incorrect Contact Information

Common Job Descriptions on Resumes

Building Your Cover Letter

The purpose of the cover letter is to interest prospective employers to call you to schedule an interview. To fulfill this purpose, you will need to target each cover letter to a specific company and position showing how your background and abilities fulfill particular organizational needs. Below is a step-by-step process on how to write a great cover letter.

1. SENDER ADDRESS
   - (Your Address)
   - • Your Name
   - • Street Address
   - • City and ZIP Code

2. DATE
   - This should be the date that you are writing the letter.

3. EMPLOYER ADDRESS
   - • Employers name
   - • Employers title
   - • Name of the company or organization
   - • Employers address

4. Greeting
   - AVOID phrases like “to whom this may concern” or “Dear hiring board”.
   - Address the employer by name. Only use gender pronouns in your greeting when you know which are preferred by the employer.

5. FIRST PARAGRAPH
   - • Indicate why you are writing
   - • Identify specific position and company
   - • Note if someone referred you
   - • Why would you be the best candidate

6. MIDDLE PARAGRAPHS
   - Explain interest in working for this employer, why you desire this type of work, and showcase your qualifications.
   - Highlight any relevant work experience or related education, but DO NOT reiterate your resume.
   - Tip: look at the job description of the position for which you are applying and identify the skills and abilities it requires. Then match your skills and abilities to the ones you identified in the job description.

7. CLOSING PARAGRAPH
   - Reiterate your strong interest in this position/company/organization.
   - Specify how and when you will follow up.

8. SIGNATURE
   - Close with “Sincerely”, a handwritten signature, and typed name below

PRO-TIP

AVOID USING A GENERIC COVER LETTER. EMPLOYERS WILL SEE THIS AS LACK OF GENUINE INTEREST.

We suggest tailoring your letter to each job you apply for.

NACE Competencies

Appalachian State provides each student with valuable employment opportunities to gain career readiness skills that will serve them for many years after they leave Appalachian. This year we have worked to align student employee job descriptions and evaluations with the National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE) Career Readiness Competencies. This is our new standard for student employment excellence.

NACE defines career readiness as the attainment and demonstration of competencies that broadly prepare college graduates for a successful transition into the workplace. Our goal is to develop a common language and expectation that each student job at Appalachian will incorporate these competencies allowing students to identify these skills they are obtaining during their times of employment on campus.

The professional development opportunities through employment our students obtain are:

- Critical Thinking and Problem Solving
- Oral and Written Communication
- Teamwork and Collaboration
- Professionalism and Strong Work Ethic
- Global and Intercultural Fluency
- Career Management
- Digital Technology
- Leadership

Top 7 Cover Letter Tips

1. Your cover letter should be no longer than one page with margins no smaller than .8 inches.

2. Address the letter to a specific individual. If you are not sure who to address it, contact the company to get the name of the hiring official. MAKE SURE TO verify the spelling of his or her name, the correct title, and/or pronouns.

3. Use a matching header for your cover letter, resume, and reference sheet.

4. Tailor your cover letter to each position you apply. Mass produced letters are easily detected and show lack of sincere interest. Your letter should reflect the needs of the company and the position requirement.

5. The tone of the letter should be positive and confident. Avoid negativity, boasting, exaggeration, and insincerity.

6. Make sure that there are no spelling or grammar errors. Stop by the Career Development Center to have one of our counselors review it for you.

7. Keep your cover letter short, sweet and to the point. Focus on the information relevant to your career goals.

Dear Ms. Foxx

Thanks for the time you took to speak with me on Tuesday. Initially, Ms. Mira Branden, who you know from our Government & Justice Studies Department at Appalachian State, recommended I contact you for your updated internship information. After speaking with you, I am even more interested in pursuing a summer 20XX internship at the Juvenile Evaluation Center.

My resume, reference list, application are enclosed for your consideration. My experience and future career goals match well with your internship opportunity and the mission of the Juvenile Evaluation Center. My experience includes three summer camp jobs in which I was closely involved in the programming, discipline, and daily management of large groups of youth ages 7 through 14. Additionally, I have two semesters of volunteer experience with the Western Youth Network working with at-risk youth ages 10-17. With a team of three other volunteers, we offer activities and after school programs designed to encourage positive group interaction and healthy emotion management. I have become well vested in facilitating group interactive exercises and discussions.

My long-term career goals are to work with at-risk youth populations. Specifically, I am eager to offer my skills to those individuals who are court referred.

Again, thanks for your time in speaking with me and in assessing my qualification. I can be reached on my cellular phone at 828-555-1212 or my land line at 828-555-4567 if you have any questions. I will be in touch with your office within the week to confirm your receipt of my application materials.

Sincerely,

Kelly Student

Building Your Network

Networking is an important first step in the job search process. The saying, “It’s about who you know, not what you know” has some truth to it. Getting to know employers and first impressions are everything. Entering a room with confidence, professionalism, and greeting people with a firm handshake will make a world of difference in your job search process. Below are tips to follow when attending a networking event.

Introduce Yourself. Let the professional you are making a connection with know who you are and what you do.

“Hello, my name is ____. I am a student at Appalachian State University studying_____.”

Tell Them Who You Know. If you were connected to this person by someone in your current network, let the professional know.

“_____ is an acquaintance/colleague/friend/etc. of mine. They suggested I speak with you because I am interested in _______.”

The “WHAT” and the “WHY”. Tell the professional what it is that you are interested in and why you are interested in connecting with them.

“I am looking into careers in _____interested in finding out more about _______. “

“I am interested in finding out more about _____ and how I can utilize my skills in _______ to ________.”

It’s A Date. Be proactive and respectful in requesting a time and day to meet with the professional.

“May I have 10-15 minutes of your time to gain your advice or ideas on ______.”

“May we connect via phone or email to discuss a time that is convenient for your schedule?”

PRO-TIP

AN ESTIMATED 80% OF JOBS ARE NEVER ADVERTISED. NETWORKING ALLOWS YOU TO TAP INTO THIS HIDDEN JOB MARKET.

Build a 30 Second Commercial

When meeting with professionals, whether it’s in informal settings, career fairs, professional meetings, or conferences; you should be able to introduce yourself and highlighting your qualifications in 30 seconds. Your “Elevator Pitch” should be all-encompassing but succinct. When crafting your 30-second pitch keep in mind 4 points:

- Who are you (name, major, etc.)
- What you do/have done (skills and experiences)
- Why you do it (motivators, interests)
- What you want to do (call to action/ future goals)
Building Your Online Presence

Facebook and Instagram have quickly created a presence in the professional realm, if used correctly. Many employers now have fan pages and use social media as part of their strategy to attract and connect with potential hires. LinkedIn, a site dedicated entirely to professional networking provides a guideline for students on how to appropriately utilize the site for their job search at learn.linkedin.com/students. Utilize the following strategies to maximize the benefits of social media:

• Join professional associations affiliated with your field on both Facebook and LinkedIn
• Research companies you are interested in working for and choose "like" on their Facebook page
• Update your profile with posts related to your job search, so employers can see that you are serious about your job search
• Choose a professional headshot photo on LinkedIn and build your professional profile to include all of the experience on your resume
• Establish connections with a personalized message about who you are, why you would like to connect, and whether you have a common connection or affiliate
• Ask for recommendations from past work, internship, volunteer or organizational supervisors, and professors on LinkedIn

Networking Tips

1. Bring your resume.
2. Be the master of small talk and initiate conversation. Avoid topics like politics, religious issues, personal questions or statements like "I need a job."
3. Practice your elevator pitch.
4. Take breaks. Give your social skills a rest if you need to take a break.
5. Be a good listener.
6. Make sure to send follow up thank you notes.

Building your Online Presence

Social Media and the internet, in general, are a huge part of your professional presence and networking ability in today’s world. Here are a couple of helpful tips on how you can maintain your professional brand and etiquette.

• Decide which version of your name to use: (Nickname vs. full name) whichever you choose to be consistent throughout all your media platforms to avoid confusion and allow potential employers to clearly identify you.
• Choose an appropriate photo: Dress professional and use a high-quality image. This is the new “first impression” potential employers will get from you. Make it a positive one.
• Highlight your skills: You have an opportunity to show potential employers what you can do before they even meet you. Show off your talents and abilities. Connect presentations, research, writing samples, etc. to your social media platforms to give potential employers a little taste of who you are.

Pursue

The Purpose of the interview is to present your qualifications for job or internships to potential employers. Employers are seeking to find the best fit for the position, department, and the organization’s mission and values.

Looking for a job can often feel like a full-time job and it can feel overwhelming. Below are a couple of ways to get your job search started.

1. Friends, Colleagues, Faculty, and Family
Utilize your network. Don’t be afraid to ask around for potential or current job openings. This is a great way to get insight into positions and organizations/companies that you are interested in applying.

2. Attend the Career Development Center’s Events
Throughout the year the Career Development Center at Appalachian State will host a variety of career fairs and networking events. Attending these events is a great opportunity to connect with employers and practice your networking and interviewing skills.

3. Handshake
Handshake is AppState’s online Career Management System designed to help students schedule career counseling appointments, search for job and internship opportunities, upcoming on-campus interviews, and practice interviews with employers.

4. Targeted Job Search
Targeted job searches focus on a particular element of the search. Use your network, start with who you know and who they know. Details like job titles, locations, specific industries or companies can help you focus on a targeted job search. Utilize job boards like Indeed, LinkedIn or professional associations you are a part of to look for jobs that interest you.
Making the Most of Career Fairs

Take the event seriously. This is not the time to joke around or go with a group of friends who may influence your choice of companies to visit.

Prepare in advance. Take time to research and familiarize yourself with companies you have a particular interest in. Bring multiple copies of your resume that has been reviewed by a career counselor.

Scope out the Scene. Before you begin speaking with the companies, take a walk around the room to get the lay of the land. If you get there early, go to the more popular tables first. If you have only limited time to spend, budget your time so you meet with companies high on your list.

Stand a few feet beside the tables that interest you. Listen to what the company representatives are asking other students. Take company literature and read it. If you don’t like what you hear, you have saved yourself time talking to them. If you do, you have given yourself an advantage.

Read Body Language. Those that stand in front of the table are probably more outgoing, and you can expect a less formal interaction. Those sitting behind a table would typically prefer a more formal style. Those that smile, less formal. Those that do not – formal.

Greet the company representatives with enthusiasm. A firm handshake. A smile. Strong eye contact. Good posture. First impressions, remember?

Dig deeper. Even if a company is looking only for sales reps. Ask about how you can get your resume to departments in which you are really interested.

Think of your dialog with companies as mini-interviews. Ask questions, answer theirs. As you end the conversation, ask for a business card.

Leave a good impression. Before you leave the fair, go back and visit the companies in which you were most interested. Let the company representatives again know you are interested.

Send Thank you notes. Make sure you send the company representative a “thank you” note within 48 hours. You can refer to those notes you have kept on the business card. You could also call the company the next day and leave a voicemail message reiterating your interest.

Initial Interviews

Initial interviews are often phone or video interviews. Employers use these interviews to screen and narrow the pool of applicants. Interviews over the phone or video are often tricky and have many external factors that can make or break your interview. It is imperative that you adequately prepare for a phone or video interview to avoid as many technological pitfalls as possible.

Tips for Phone Interviews

• When choosing a location to do your phone interview, choose a quiet place free of any distractions. The Career Development Center offers interview rooms to students to rent out for this purpose.
• Contact the people who call or text you the most and ask them to not call or text you while you are in your interview.
• Keep your resume near you.
• Dress for the interview and sit up straight. Even though no one may be watching, your appearance and actions can reflect how you feel or respond to the interview questions.
• Speak clearly and slowly.
• Make sure you have a professional voicemail.

Types of Interview Questions

Traditional: questions that are used to gain information about applicants’ background, interest, skills, and reasons for applying. These questions are usually at the beginning of the interview.

Behavioral: questions that focus on applicants’ personality and behavior. These questions are situation based.

Case/Situational: questions or scenarios posed for the applicant to solve. Getting the correct answer is not important here. These questions are designed to understand an applicants problem solving/analysis skills.

Tips for Video Interviews

• Verify which program you will be using for the interview with the employer. Make sure it is a program that you have access to or can download. (i.e. Skype, Zoom, Google Hangouts, etc.)
• Make sure your username is an identifiable and professional one. Using your first and/or the last name is usually a good choice.
• Avoid cluttered backgrounds for your video interview. Using blank walls in your room or office is the best option.
• Remove distractions. Turn your cell phone on silent, put pets in a separate room, ask friends and roommates to not call or disturb you during your interview.
• Practice video chatting with a friend. Use this time to make sure the microphone and video work. You should also use this time to find a good space to do the interview.
• Make eye contact while interviewing. Look at the screen instead of the camera.
• Dress professionally and make sure they see it. Make sure the camera is adjusted so the employer does not only see your face but your professional dress.
• Keep your phone close in case there are technical difficulties on either end of the interview.

What an Employer Cannot Ask

Federal and state laws prohibit employers from asking certain questions during an interview. It is important to know that there are some questions that you legally do not have to answer. Review the Resources in the back of this guide to see what topics to avoid and how to respond to them.

Using the S.T.A.R. Method

The S.T.A.R. method is a structured manner of responding to a behavioral-based question by discussing the specific situation, task, action, and result of the situation you are describing.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Situation</th>
<th>Task</th>
<th>Action</th>
<th>Results</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Describe the situation that you were in or the task that you needed to accomplish. You should describe a specific event or situation, not a generalized description of what you have done in the past.</td>
<td>Describe the goal you were working toward. What was the problem? What was your role? What was the assignment?</td>
<td>Describe the actions you took to address the situation. Keep the focus on YOU. What specific steps did you take and what was your contribution?</td>
<td>Describe the outcome of your actions and don’t be shy about taking credit for your behavior.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
In-Person Interviews

The purpose of the interview is to present your qualifications for job or internships to potential employers. Employers are seeking to find the best fit for the position, department and the organization’s mission and values. Always be prepared to address your skills, abilities, experiences, and personality effectively and persuasively.

Before the interview
- Check out the organization’s website.
- Do a web search of the organization and see what others are saying about them.
- Look at promotional materials.
- Talk to knowledgeable people in the field.
- Know the company’s mission, focus, and values.
- Anticipate and practice potential questions.
- Prepare questions for the interviewer.
- Prepare and bring extra copies of your resume and references.

During the interview
- Arrive Early. 10 - 15 minutes ahead of time sets you up for a good first impression.
- Take a deep breath and relax. It is all about being yourself, not who you think they want.
- Be present. Listen closely to the interview questions and ask the interviewer to repeat the question or clarify if you did not hear them or did not understand the question.
- Don’t be afraid to ask for a couple seconds to think about the question and formulate your answer.
- Look out for body language. Keep a professional posture.
- Be clear and concise with your answers. Use specific examples to back up your skills and knowledge.

After the Interview
- Write a thank you note to your interviewers. Always do this whether it is by e-mail or handwritten note, always send a thank you.
- Follow up with a phone call to find out the status of your application.

Questions for the Interviewer
- Always have questions about the organization prepared for the interview. You, as an applicant, have to judge whether the organization offers the type of opportunity, work environment, and challenge you are seeking.

Some Example Questions:
- Why is this position vacant?
- What would a typical working day be like?
- What key challenges and/or problems face the person in this position?
- How, when, and by whom would I be evaluated? What are the performance criteria?
- What is the next step in the hiring process?
- How much contact is there with management?

Practice Makes Perfect
- Practice your interviewing skills. The Career Development Center offers a variety of opportunities for you to practice your interviewing skills. TAKE these opportunities.
- Practice interviews with your career counselor
- Schedule a practice interview with an employer
- Utilize “Big Interview” – our online practice interview system.

PRO-TIP
NEVER ASK ABOUT COMPENSATION UNTIL YOU ARE DONE WITH THE INTERVIEW PROCESS AND HAVE BEEN OFFERED A JOB.

EVEN THEN, LET THE INTERVIEWER BE THE FIRST TO BRING UP SALARY AND BENEFITS. HAVE A SALARY RANGE IN MIND AND DO SOME RESEARCH INTO STARTING SALARIES IN YOUR FIELD AND COST OF LIVING IN THE EMPLOYERS AREA.

Dear Ms. Glass

It was a pleasure to speak with you and Mr. Martin on the phone yesterday. Thank you for the time you took to interview me for a summer 20XX internship.

After speaking with you, I am even more excited about the opportunity to bring my writing skills to All Good Things. I know I could be an asset as you prepare your proposals for the upcoming year. It would also be a pleasure to offer my strong web writing skills to your new website project. You face an ambitious timeline and I would be glad to work diligently to help make that launch date a reality.

Please let me know if I need to provide you with additional information. I can be reached easily on my cellular phone at 828-773-XXXX.

Again, thank you for the interview. I look forward to hearing from you!

Sincerely,

Jack Jefferson

Questions Employers Cannot Ask

Employers are legally restricted from asking you questions on the following topics:

- Age
- Gender
- Religion
- Sexual preference
- Marital/family status
- Country of origin
- Disabilities

If you are asked these questions you have options on how you may answer the employer:

- You may choose to answer the question, but only if you are comfortable with doing so.
- You could change the subject of the conversation to avoid the question. You can ask why they are asking so you can understand how that information is important to the job.
- And of course, because you are not legally required to answer, you can always refuse to answer the question.

Dress for Success

Workplace attire will vary from industry to industry and office to office. It will be important to note once you get the job. For the interview and career fairs, you should almost always wear business professional attire. Typical professional business attire includes dress shoes, suits, and neutral colors and hues. Dressing professionally will set the right tone for potential employers. When in doubt, air on the side of a more conservative look. Once you are hired you will be able to adopt company or office dress culture.

GROOMING

- Hair should be trimmed, pulled away from the face and neatly styled.
- Wear daytime, natural-looking makeup.
- Avoid overpowering scents like perfumes or cologne.
- Nails should be clean and manicured.

SUIT

- Wear a 2 piece, matching suit.
- If you wear a skirt it should be knee length.
- Stick to neutral colors (brown, dark gray, black or navy).

SHIRT/BLOUSE

- Light colored button-down shirts or blouses are usually appropriate.
- Long sleeve button down shirts should fall ¼ to ⅜ inch below the suit sleeve.
- Be sure to iron your shirt.
- Cotton is a good fabric to wear because it is very breathable.
- Wear a shirt that you are comfortable in even if you have to take off your jacket.

ACCESSORIES

- Keep jewelry and accessories simple. Avoid distractions, You want the employer to focus on your qualifications.
- Limit rings and piercings for interviews and job fairs.
- Padfolios, a purse, or professional bag is good.
- Belts should match the color of your shoes.
- Avoid, if possible, visible tattoos.
Pursuing Graduate and Professional School

Applying to graduate or professional school can be a time-consuming and tedious process. It is important to consider all the options and factors, from researching schools and programs to submitting your application. There are plenty of people on campus who are ready and willing to help you start and get through this daunting process, like your career counselor, academic advisor and/or professors. As you are getting started, make sure to consider the timeline and notes below.

Key Steps for Applying to Graduate and Professional School

- Research graduate programs of interest
- Complete volunteer work or internship in intended field
- Grab every opportunity to make conference presentations or to collaborate on publications
- Be active and selective in student organizations
- Write an honors thesis if you have the option
- Join professional organizations in your discipline
- Get research experience with a faculty mentor
- Take the appropriate entrance exam at least six months before you need to apply
- Select references carefully and give them enough time and information
- Make sure that your entire application is NEAT and complete

Graduate Admissions Test

Tests you need to take vary by the types of programs you are applying to and can vary from school to school.

GRE – Graduate Record Examination
GMAT – Graduate Management Admission Test
MCAT – Medical College Admissions Test
LSAT – Law School Admission Test
PCAT – Pharmacy College Admission Test
MAT – Miller Analogies Test

YOUR APPLICATION MATERIALS WILL NOT BE PROCESSED UNTIL TEST SCORES ARE RECEIVED: TAKE THE EXAMS YOU NEED WITH PLENTY OF TIME BEFORE APPLICATION DEADLINES.

The Entrance Essay

The entrance essay provides an opportunity for you to differentiate your qualifications from other candidates. It can have various names such as personal statement, letter of intent, statement of purpose, autobiographical statement and/or objectives of the graduate study.

Explain what you want to study and what motivates you to pursue an advanced degree in that subject: What are your academic interests? How did you get interested in the field? What do you hope to gain from graduate school?

Offer insight into why you are applying to this particular program: How will this graduate program add to your skill set and knowledge base?

Outline what experiences you have in the field: What kinds of relevant research, academic, clinical, personal or field experiences have you had that prepared you for graduate study? What sets you apart from other applicants?

Expand upon what you plan to do with your degree: What are your career goals? What do you hope to contribute to your field?

Address anything that is not flattering in your application: For example, did you receive a poor grade in a significant class? Are your GRE scores below average? Are there any problems or inconsistencies in your application materials (test scores, grades, background check) that you should explain?

Structure of Your Essay

Adhere strictly to all content/format guidelines and page/word number limits. If no specific guidelines for format or content are offered, be brief and state your points clearly.

Style of Your Essay

Engage your reader. Avoid flowery wording. Be compelling and offer an interesting opening paragraph and supporting paragraphs that help the reader understand why you are applying to this type of graduate program. Each paragraph should be focused and have a topic sentence that informs the reader of the paragraph’s emphasis.
